Multi-instrumentalist Dave Flippo recently released his sixth studio effort titled "Dedications - Jazz From Planet Flippo." It includes eleven tracks, beginning with Flippo's own arrangement of Stevie Wonder's "Too High," as Dave gets the quintet firing on all cylinders. The melody of "Finch House" simply glides along the idea of watching these feathered friends on their daily routines. The energy comes pouring out of Flippo's stellar piano work on "Giraffe Trek," as the rest of the band follow suit. Next, Dave Flippo and his band rework Amy Winehouse' "Rehab" into a funky, jazz romp with elements of the original chorus shining through to still give it a pop element. Another reworked gem is Flippo's version of Radiohead's "Karma Police"

which keeps the original song's overtone, while adding his own touches of piano and sax, just to jazz it up a bit. Dave Flippo and his band close out their new album with the gentle sway of "Four-Four Waltz" and the ten minute epic jazz piece "Metamorphosis."
